Employer branding activities of the Fortune 500

As the global leader, Universum is committed to monitor and analyse the fast-paced field of employer branding. Each year, Universum conducts a global survey to identify the latest trends within the field. The data is collected from those that work directly with the employer brands of some of the world's largest companies. The report is essential reading for those who work with employer branding and an invaluable insight into present strategy and challenges on a global and regional level.

Get your copy of Employer Branding Insight now and learn more about:

- Strategy and management
- Short-term and long-term challenges
- Financing and what this means for the future of employer branding
- Communication focus and how this compares to student preferences - do employers get it right
- Analysis of this year's trends

In addition, this year's Employer Branding Insight offers expert commentary from those in the field and access to some of Universum Quarterly's best articles of 2008.
